

2021 STATEWIDE LEARNING SERIES

We are honored to announce CATTA's 2021 Statewide Training, which is a multipart Learning Series on Historical Trauma and the role it plays in the work service providers do with marginalized communities. While the impact of racialized, historical trauma is certainly not new or emerging, the conversation is imminent in any intentional or mindful setting focused on best practices in healing and treating children who have experienced trauma. We've sought the participation and leadership of some of the field's most beloved subject matter experts and have compiled a training we believe everyone can benefit from. Please join us for a multipart* series to be released over the next few months that accommodates various learning styles, featuring:

- An audio article
- Two podcast episodes
- A webinar
- A panel discussion
- Interdisciplinary group discussions

The CATT Center would like to recognize Taquelia Washington, LCSW and Sayida Peprah, PsyD for their dedication to the development of this Learning Series. Listen in on a conversation between these two brilliant minds in Part 2 of the series.

**CEUs will be offered for select parts of the learning series.*

Taquelia Washington, LCSW

Sayida Peprah, PsyD

Upon registration you will receive a confirmation email and may continue to access the website for updates regarding registration for subsequent parts of the series. For additional information, please contact Kelly Flugum at kelly.flugum@cirinc.org.

Thank you and we look forward to your participation!
